ENTRIES MADE IN DIARY
Arrested by Sacramento Police
For an Attempted Murder

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Oct. 7.—Entries in a diary found in the possession of E. H. Stein, 37, held here for the attempted murder of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hawkins in North Sacramento today started sheriff's deputies on an investigation to determine if Stein is connected with the recent murder of Richard F. Stone, Forest Hill lumber mill owner.

Sheriff Ellis Jones revealed that Stein's diary made terse statements in reference to "holdups" on days when two sensational robberies were staged in Northern California. One was the holdup and dynamiting of a Southern Pacific passenger train and the cold blooded murder of four trainmen in the Siskiyou mountains in October, 1923.

DEATH HOVERS OVER PITCHER DURING GAME

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—White Walter Johnson was pitching the Washington Senators to victory today in the first game of the world series, he little realized that the shadow of death was hovering over him. While the pitcher declared to be one of the great, if not the greatest in history, was pitching his teammates to victory his grandfather, John L. Perry, lay dead in a little Santa Monica home. The news of his grandfather's death was kept from Johnson until after the game.

MURDER TRIAL OF CONVICTS STARTS TODAY

SAN RAFAEL, Oct. 7.—Charged with the murder of Branch Miller, prison employee, who was killed during their daring attempted escape last August, six San Quentin convicts today began their fight for life in the Superior court here. The greater part of the day was devoted to selecting a jury. Fifteen women, all of whom declared that they were opposed to capital punishment, were rejected as prospective jurors. But one woman, Mrs. E. H. Butler, was on the jury when the trial opened for hearing of the evidence this afternoon.

Ernest Spagnoli, attorney for the convicts, made guarded references to "a mysterious Mexican" alleged to have been a bitter enemy of the killed prison attaché. It is contended by the defense that Miller was killed by a bullet from the gun of a guard who fired on the escaping prisoners.

That Miller had been killed by being clubbed over the head was the testimony given by Dr. E. E. Lucas, the first witness on the stand.

PITELLI TRIAL STARTS TODAY
MARTINEZ, Oct. 7.—Fred Pitelli came to trial before Judge H. V. Alvarado today confronted by a 15-year-old girl of Crockett whom he is accused of having wronged and charged with a statutory offense.

The jury in this case was selected yesterday. It was the first instance in the history of this county that one prospective juror sat in the court room waiting for the trial of another to terminate so that their case might go ahead. It was a case of meeting out justice per a set schedule.

Under cross examination, the girl accused admitted that her mother had been living with Pitelli for some time. When counsel for the defense attempted to prove by the girl's testimony that an ill feeling of the mother toward Pitelli was responsible for the arrest and prosecution, an argument over rules of evidence was precipitated that continued until the middle of the afternoon and caused the excluding of the jury from the court room.

The prosecution is being conducted by Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoev while T. D. Johnston and H. M. Bishop are defending Pitelli.

Richmond's Municipal Hotel Which Is To Be Started Next Wednesday

Architects drawing of the New Richmond Municipal Hotel, construction of which is to start next Wednesday afternoon. The first floor plans are shown below. Upon completion this will be one of the most modern hotels in the state. The building which will be the most imposing on Richmond's skyline is to be constructed at Tenth and Nevin streets.

Ground will be broken on for Richmond's New Municipal Hotel on the afternoon of October 14 with appropriate ceremonies. Harvey M. Toy chairman of the state highway commission and well known hotel man of the state will deliver the principal address. A large group of well known hotel owners and managers have been invited to the ceremonies. As was stated last Saturday by the RECORD-HERALD the general contract for the construction of the hotel was signed this morning as planned by the Directors of the Hotel Company with Barrett and Hiltz who were awarded the general contract for $148,970. This is slightly under the original figure allowed for the general contract in the estimate.

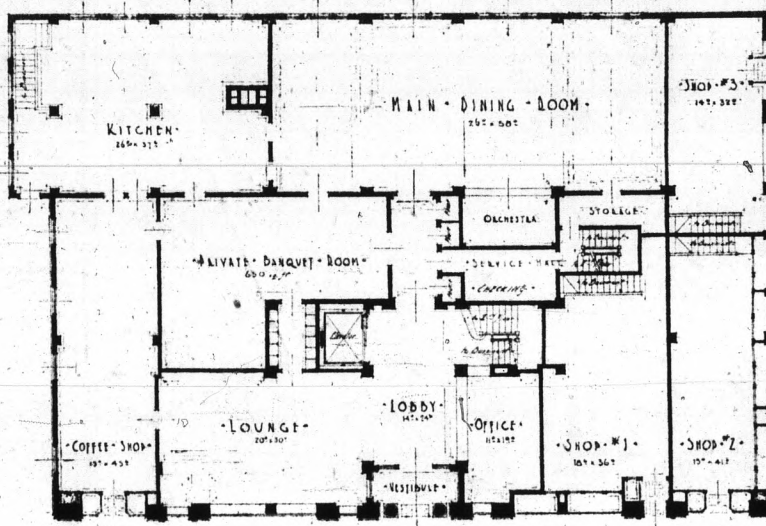

The Barrett and Hiltz bid was the lowest bid submitted and was approximately $7,000 lower than the lowest bid submitted by the lowest local contractor.

J. G. and William Grier of Richmond were awarded the heating contract for $9,310. A steam heating and ventilating system is to be installed.

Following the signing of the contract yesterday morning directors of the hotel company pointed out that the building will be of the highest type and as originally planned. This will consist of a structure of reinforced concrete, fire-proof with concrete floors and walls, steel studding, steel lathing, concrete stairways and concrete joists. Except for the window frames, doors and moulding no wood is to be put into the structure.

Approximately $40,000 has been allowed for the fixtures. The lobby, kitchen, coffee shop and bedroom of the hotel will be equipped with the latest type of hotel fixtures.

Local labor if available is to be used exclusively. Richmond sub-contractors and material producers and dealers will be favored whenever and wherever possible according to a statement by the directors of the hotel company.

The reduction of about $4,000 which was made from the original bid of Barrett and Hiltz was made by putting in a hand controlled elevator of a speed of 150 feet per minute instead of the electric controlled, self-leveling type with a 250 feet speed which was the type provided in the original specification.

The Barrett and Hiltz contract provides for the completion of the hotel within 160 working days. This will make the hotel ready for occupancy by the tourists season of 1926.

The government is to continue the operation of the line between San Francisco and New York, while the new lines to which contracts were awarded today will act as "feeder" lines.

The rate of postage will be the same on the new lines as on the main lines. Ten cents an ounce is to be charged. Of this four cents will go to the owner of the ships. The lines will be conducted on the same order as the ones operated by the government, with the exception that they will be permitted to carry merchandise as well as passengers.

Marine Says Flyers Fear To Testify

Marine Backs General Mitchell On Stand for Separate Air Service

FAVOR SEPARATE SERVICE
Rear Admiral Moffett Has Change
Of Heart When Recalled
To Stand

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Practically all army and navy flyers are backing Colonel Mitchell's demand for a separate air service, but are afraid to say so, according to one witness before the President's aircraft board today.

Captain James G. Moore, a Marine Corps flyer, gave this testimony. He declared that fully 95 per cent of the Marine Corps flyers, 80 per cent of the Navy flyers and about the same percentage of Army flyers, favor the Mitchell plan. He has talked with them and knows exactly how they feel, he said.

"But you can't get them to come here and tell you that," Captain Moore explained.

The Marine flyer, with the bluntness characteristic of the "Devil Dogs" declared there is acute dissatisfaction among the Marine flyers over the way they have been treated. They are almost a unit for reorganization. Their chief complaint he said is based on the fact that they are obliged to take orders from officers who know nothing whatever about flying.

Captain Moore's testimony followed the recall of Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, who made a complete reversal of testimony given by himself before the same board on September 22.

In his previous testimony, Moffett endorsed the idea of a separate organization for the navy air service. Today he told the board that the present system is all right and should be unchanged.

OBJECTION MADE ON NUDE PHOTOS IN SCHOOL TEXT

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 7.—Declaring that the illustrations of Cupid and Psyche in Jessie M. Tatlock's volume on "Greek and Roman Mythology" are entirely unfit for the observation of adolescent youth, Rev. R. P. Schuler and Superintendent of Schools Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, both of Los Angeles, have filed protests with the State Board of Education.

Although the book in question is used only as a reference work in high school libraries, Mrs. Dorsey recommends that the state make no further purchases of the volume until the publishers have eliminated the nude pictures. She has already taken action by cutting out some of the objectionable illustrations in the books under her jurisdiction.

FEDERAL AID FOR ROADS

Increasing the appropriation for federal aid in highway construction is likely to be one of the most bitterly fought over issues in the next congress. Opposition to our national policy, in several instances serving as political capital, is rapidly arousing public interest.

Nor are champions for the defense lacking. Alvin Macauley, president of the Packard Motor Car company, writing in the National Republic for September on "The Government's New Big Business," cites proof that saving in the operating costs of motor vehicles will more than offset the billion dollar expenditure necessary to complete the 200,000 mile federal-aid system within ten years. Delay in pushing road construction at maximum speed means an increasing waste as the number of motor vehicles grows. Of the 21,264,742 cars in the world registered on January 1, 1925, 17,591,981 are in the United States. It is small wonder that a road-building program of unprecedented magnitude has been forced upon us. Despite present operating costs due to inadequate roads, motor transportation is lowering the cost of living, increasing our national health through outdoor life, and knitting the nation into a homogeneous whole through the breaking down of sectionalism.

The road-building accomplished under federal supervision cannot be too highly praised. The obligations of the government in the building of interstate roads cannot be disregarded. The desirability of continuing the present program cannot be overstressed, nor the urgent necessity for appropriating $100,000,000 annually to push it with a speed limited only by men, materials and climate. Whether or not we have roads adequate for our transportation needs we must pay for them declare our highway engineers, and we pay more if we do not have them than if we do. Probably as thorough and comprehensive a digest of the subject as has yet been made appeared in the Outdoors Pictorial for September. As the facts are brought before the public in articles such as these mentioned, the completion of our great highway system will be assured, for congress though frequently criticized, does represent the best thought of the American people.

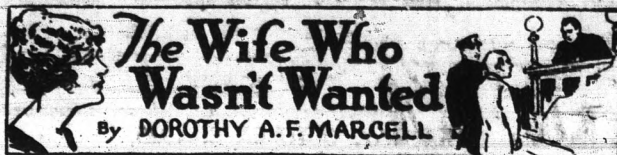

TAX REDUCTION PUBLICITY

Tax reduction is proving a very popular subject now with speakers and writers of all political parties. The change over the situation two years ago is rather remarkable so far as it concerns the attitude of the public mind toward surtaxes. The people generally now seem inclined to believe that Secretary Mellon was right when he said that a decisive reduction in surtaxes would stimulate business and lead to even greater returns. The democratic leaders have sensed the change and, it is believed, will offer nothing like the united opposition of a few years ago to the reduction of surtaxes. In fact it is quite likely that the democrats will have a reduction plan of their own which will be modeled somewhat on the Mellon lines, but bearing of course a different name.

Some of the democratic statesmen even seem inclined to outdo the republicans in the slashing of taxes. It is believed however, that when the customary political skirmishing has subsided that a tax law satisfactory to the people of the country in general will be evolved. There has been so much publicity about reducing taxes and public opinion is so expectant that the tax bill will doubtless be in the hands of the President before the time for filing returns in March 1926, comes around.

A New York jurist says capital punishment ought to be abolished because it does not stop crime. But he fails to state what will stop it.

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted
By DOROTHY A. F. MARCELL

Copyright, 1925, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"THE WIFE WHO WASN'T WANTED" with Irene Rich is a pictureization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

John Manning, candidate for reelection as District Attorney, has declared his intention to prosecute his own son, Bob, for manslaughter, the boy having been in a car which crashed into another, killing a woman. The wife and mother, Eileen, is torn at her husband. She loves and admires him, but her affection for the boy is even stronger. Jerome Wallace, a former suitor, is a candidate against Manning and he tells Eileen if he is elected he can help Bob.

Wallace had promised to procure Bob's freedom if he were elected, and John would continue to be as adamant if he won, but crushed, his spirit broken, if he lost. It was only with an effort that Eileen restrained herself from fairly groaning aloud as the problem lay plain before her. Was ever wife and mother torn from a happy and sheltered life to face a more grievous dilemma? Then suddenly her face filled with relief. There was still a way from her point of view. An easy way could John's stubbornness be overcome and he brought to a reasonable view of the duties and true responsibilities of parenthood. She had once been repulsed, but why repulse? Had not persistence turned defeat into victory for many another woman when hope seemed dead?

She shifted her position in the car. It was the slightest sort of movement, but with the change the reverse she had exhibited towards her husband that morning, seemed to fade and a subtle warmth to creep into her manner towards him.

It was not lost upon John. Hardly had she moved before he smiled at her. It was a proprietary smile, bringing an eagerness to his tired, haggard face which was almost pathetic.

"You must be dreadfully tired, dear," he said gently. "You never slept a wink last night."

"No, nor did you either, John," she agreed sympathetically. He reached down and procured a cushion.

"Let me put this behind your back, Eileen. It will make you more comfortable."

She allowed him to adjust it and sank back upon it with a pleased sigh.

"That is better, thank you, John." Then after a moment's hesitation, "I could almost say I am perfectly comfortable were it not for Bob."

His face brightened as they talked, but now it clouded.

"I know, dear—it is hard—awfully hard for you to bear."

"But think of Bob, John!" she cried, with a feeling which she was at pains to suppress.

"How can I be happy with him in such a place, amongst such surroundings?"

There was tenderness and anxiety in his face as he regarded her with never a word.

"He's so pale, John. You must have noticed that," she went on. "It's no wonder shut up in that horrible place."

"It is a hard experience for the boy," he agreed, with a sigh.

"Hard? It's positively fearful, John," she shivered. "What can he do with himself but sit there and think and think? To remain there day after day amidst such depressing surroundings is bound to have a bad effect upon him. It cannot help but leave its mark upon him in some way, and John, might it not—is there not real danger that it will affect his mind?"

"No," she said, with the assurance born of exact knowledge. "Thousands of men pass years—for that matter, many are confined for life—without the slightest deterioration of their mental faculties."

"But Bob is different," she persisted, promptly shifting her ground. "He has been carefully reared; he is used to all the luxuries of life. Think of the hardship it must be to him to adjust himself to the conditions in such a place!"

Although she eyed him questioningly, his only answer was a grave nod.

"I am sure the food served is detestable."

"It is plain fare, but thoroughly wholesome, Eileen, you can rest assured of that."

"But are you sure that it agrees with him, John? Remember, dear, I've always had to be extremely watchful of his diet."

He stared ahead with anxious and unseeing eyes as if lost in thought.

"Perhaps he is thinner," he mused, as if talking to himself, and then to her. "Did you think he was thinner; did he seem thinner to you, Eileen?"

Impulsively she reached forth to touch his hand, her eyes alight with hope.

"John, you do care—you do care deeply, don't you?"

"How can you doubt it, Eileen?" he groaned, giving way to his feelings before her kindness. "God knows it sometimes feels to me as if it must break my heart."

"Not your heart, dear, not your heart, if you play fair with Bob—with me."

He gazed at her, anguish plain in his face, as if he wished to be certain of her meaning.

"Play fair with Bob, with you, Eileen?"

"I mean exactly that," she said, her soul in her eyes. "When are you going to use your ability, your professional skill—yes, your office—every bit of influence you can bring to bear, anything, to get your son out of that awful jail?"

He gazed down at her, a great tenderness plain amidst his feeling.

"Poor little sweetheart, that great mother's heart of yours makes you forget. You would be the last to ask me to make use of my official influence to—"

"Don't mistake me, John. Why mince matters. I'd have you use anything and honor you for doing anything to help Bob. How much longer are you going to keep this sort of thing up?"

He took a deep breath and when he spoke it was quietly, but with intense resolution.

"Just so long as I am District Attorney, just so long as I am in office, Eileen, I must do my duty as I see it." Then, as if to temper his attitude, he stretched forth his hand to touch hers. "Can't you understand, darling? Surely you must realize my position?" he pleaded.

But without a word in response she drew back in her corner of the car and, withdrawing her hand, allowed him to fall unheeded upon the cushion. Again she had tried to bring her husband to her way of thinking without success. Never a thought for herself had she had, only for Bob, their son. Yet John, her husband, had refused her.

With bitterness there came a remembrance of Wallace's words: "Who could help you more than your husband?" Apparently, anybody. At least he, a man to whom she had hardly given a thought in twenty years, was afflicted by no such scruples as those which bound her husband.

If Eileen had been reserved in her attitude towards her husband before, she was cold now. At the door of her home she allowed John to drive away with never a word. Straight for her own room she made, refusing lunch, nor did she appear to greet her husband at dinner. A prey to disappointment, yes; but more and more giving thought to Wallace's pledge of assistance. In the face of her husband's unbending purpose, in despair of being able to help Bob in any other way, Wallace's offer seemed her final hope.

West Coast Theatres Plan Big Array of Good Pictures At The California Theatre

This is the age of the specialist—the man or woman who have concentrated upon one line of endeavor to bring success to their field of operations. The West Coast Theatres, Inc., who control and conduct the California theatre along with some 130 other playhouses all in California, sent one of their specialists to Richmond yesterday to put across a campaign for the coming engagement of John Barrymore in "Beau Brummel" which occurs at the California theatre on Monday and Tuesday of next week. The executive is Frank Whitbeck, chief of all the publicity for the circuit, with headquarters in the Loew's Warfield building in San Francisco.

"Beau Brummel" to us, represents one of the most important bookings of the season at the California," said Whitbeck. "This is true for two reasons—the first is that upon the success of this showing will depend to a great extent, the pictures which are to play here during the fall and winter and, secondly, because the picture is one of the finest examples of the motion picture art.

"If we can get 'Beau Brummel' away to a flying start in Richmond, and there isn't much reason to believe we can't, we can send some of the great pictures of the screen. Not the ordinary screen drama which has its main appeal through the flare of its title, but the sort of motion picture which brings a definite message of accomplishment, the sort of acting which means something to the screen and to the spectator's understanding—a clean story, well produced and played by an exceptional company. There are such pictures coming to Richmond, 'Beau Brummel' isn't the only one. There is 'Kavale of the Islands' which is to be shown with Betty Bronson in 'Not So Long Ago', the Ernest Lubitsch production of 'The Marriage Circle' and the William Fox production of 'The Iron Horse'.

"We are not interested in the great cinema production—we know Richmond will support these—what we want is to interest every man and woman in the beauty, the artistry of such productions as 'Beau Brummel' because, after all, it is in these clean and clear cut classics of the screen that the motion picture finds its greatest, and truest expression.

"Personally I believe 'Beau Brummel' will be a great success in Richmond but, our board of directors want to be sure. Consequently we are concentrating on this one picture to bring home the message of the fine pictures to come. In every city and town where 'Beau Brummel' has been shown it has registered the artistic success of the year—we want Richmond to realize its worth the very first night—not to hear about the wonder of Barrymore's acting or the beauty of the production, the day after the picture is off the screen of the California theatre."

MIDSHIPMAN PLEASES AT CALIFORNIA

Just when ingenuity in the movies seems to have been exhausted and plots become flagrantly repetitions, along comes a photoplay that commands even sophisticated attention and redeems nearly every film that fell below par.

Such a photoplay is "The Midshipman" which opened at the California theatre with Ramon Novarro in the starring role. It was produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and directed by Christy Cabanne.

"The Midshipman" is more than a pleasing example of what can be accomplished in the way of motion picture entertainment when the cast is willing and the story and director are not weak.

The story had its origin in the never-before-touched-upon domain of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. Those who had any reason to suspect that romance in the Navy is a rarity may stand prepared to alter their opinions. If naval romance has never been manifest on the screen here before it is because it lacked the bold far-seeing interpreters who are responsible for the creation of "The Midshipman."

Ramon Novarro's performance is clear cut and carried out with a fine military discipline. In civilian clothes or in uniform, he remains the sincere and profound lover.

Harriet Hammond makes a thoroughly acceptable leading lady, and other who contribute to the historic nature of this newest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer photoplay are: Wesley Barry, Margaret Seddon, Crawford Kent, Kathleen Key, Pauline Neff, Maurice Ryan, Harold Goodwin and William Boyd. Secretary of the Navy Willbur Offutt quite satisfactorily in the graduation scenes.

Other features on the same program include Earle Foxe in "The Big Game Hunter," a new Van Bibber comedy, International news, Larry Canelo at the organ.

Irene Rich Leads Cast in Picture At M. E. Church

Irene Rich, who heads the impressive cast of players in "This Woman" which will be shown at the "Family Night" program at Wesley M. E. church, Friday evening, October 9, at 7:45 o'clock, tells an amusing story of the time she moved from Buffalo to the semi-frontier of a mining camp in Idaho.

"For mother," she said, "the change was terrible. For me it was the brink of romance. I used to ride five miles to the nearest town to get provisions, fearfully excited at being allowed to shoot a pistol.

"Once I thought I'd have to use it, when a rough man stopped me on a lonely trail, saying, 'Wait, miss. I want a good look at you—I haven't seen a pretty woman in years.'

"I saw he meant no harm, so I let him look, posing a little under the compliment. I'm afraid. He gazed his fill, with tears in his eyes; a poor old prospector, hungry for companionship. No screen far compliment has ever affected me so much."

"This Woman" is a Warner Bros. Classic of the screen adapted from the Howard Reckey best seller. Supporting Irene Rich are Louis Fazenda, Ricardo Cortez, Clara Bow, Marc

"Classmates" Richard Barthelmess new First National picture now playing at the Richmond theatre, has a cast of typical Barthelmess excellence.

Unlike many motion picture stars, Barthelmess believes in surrounding himself with able players. He has had some of the best known actresses in the celluloid world as his leading women, including Dorothy Hurl, Gladys Hulette and others of note. For "Classmates" he selected Madge Evans, who was the first child star of the movies. For five years she starred with the old World Film company. Then she retired from pictures to go to school. Now, at fifteen, she is back on the silver sheet.

Other distinguished members of the picture's cast are Reginald Sheffield, a young English actor; Beach Cooke, who has scored a number of stage hits with Leo Ditrichstein and other stars of the speaking theatre; James Bradbury, Jr., Herbert Cortell, comedian; Claude Brooke, Antrim Short and Richard Harlan. The entire student corps of West Point appears in "Classmates."

Other features include "Mysterious Mystery" an "Our Gang" comedy; "Prizma" the screen magazine.

CONFERENCE TO SPLIT
It is expected that the Pacific coast athletic conference will be divided into two sections in the near future. There is nothing but praise in both sections for the manner in which the conference has been carried on and no conference is more effectively governed and nowhere are the various provisions of the code more rigidly observed. But the matter of completion is different. Climatic conditions hurt as northerners coming south feel the heat and those going north also work under a hardship.

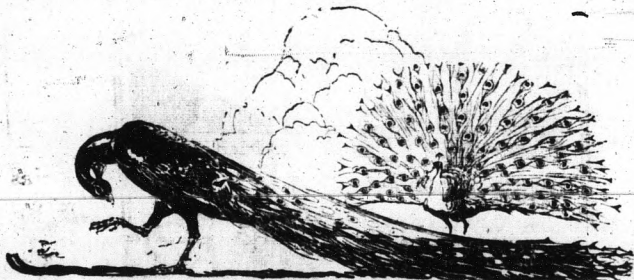

UNLUCKIEST OF THE UNLUCKY
Wilbur Cooper is considered one of the unluckiest of the unlucky ball players. For 13 years he was star southpaw for the Pittsburgh Pirates, but last spring he was traded to the Chicago Cubs. He worked hard for the Pirates, but Fate played him a dirty trick.

BEARS MEET DIFFICULTY
The California Bears are facing two hard weeks, with the Olympic club Saturday and the St. Mary's Phoenix the following week. They are far from set up for any team, being experienced, heavy and fast. If Andy Smith's Bruins are to be beaten this year it is almost a certainty it will be one of these teams will do it. Carrying out this vein of reasoning, Smith is putting his squad through the most vigorous workouts of the year this week.

Advertisements are business messages—read them!

Joie Ray, sensational Chicago athlete, who is considered one of the best middle distance runners ever developed in this country, is going after boxing honors with the same cocksureness that has so often carried him to victory on the track. Ray has denied that he intends to quite cinderpath for the fabled canvas of the ring, but says he does intend to try for a championship in the amateur ranks. Joie has always been clever with his mitts and is confident of annexing a boxing title.

IS A PEACOCK ashamed of HIS LEGS?

If not, why, when he looks at his legs, does he always lower his tail? Medieval nature-fakers puzzled over this and other entertaining superstitions. Today we know better, and we are fast getting away from other popular superstitions, as, for instance, that there is something mysteriously "better" about "eastern" motor oils merely because they cost more and are made in the east.

Superstitions Pass—the Facts Prove Zerolene's Superiority

As a matter of fact, there is no better motor oil than Zerolene, which is produced right here on the Pacific Coast from selected western naphthenic base crude, refined by this Company's patented high-vacuum process, and submitted to 15 positive checks for quality.

Experienced Automobile Men Disregard Oil Superstition

Experienced automobile men pay no tribute to superstition—they gauge a lubricant not by price or where it comes from—but by car performance and low maintenance costs. Zerolene is not only successfully lubricating more cars in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made;—it is used and recommended by automobile agencies and big users of such celebrated makes as Cadillac, Chrysler, Dodge, Lincoln, Packard, Pierce-Arrow, who know that true motor oil economy is not a matter of price per quart, but what the lubricant does.

Less Carbon—More Power

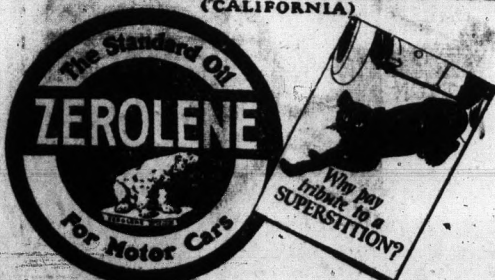

Zerolene will improve the gasoline mileage, reduce carbon removal operations and lengthen the life of your car. Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene—ask for it by name.

Get the Facts!

SENATORS WIN FIRST GAME IN WORLD SERIES

(By Universal Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7.—After the Washington Senators had triumphed over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first game of the 1925 World Series today, Walter Johnson, the greatest pitcher who ever pitched in a world series, pitched his most outstanding game today.

Max Carey, Pittsburgh captain, also made a statement after the game. It was: "Our consolation in this afternoon's defeat is that the Senators have but one Walter Johnson and that it will be quite a few days before we have to meet up with him again."

By DAMON RUNYON
Copyright by Universal Service.

FORBES, FIELD, PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7.—Long ago a better by the name of "Ping" Bodie, hurled his bat to the ground after facing the pitching of Walter Johnson and delivered himself to these sentiments: "You can't hit 'em if you can't see 'em."

The Pittsburgh Pirates, champions of the National league, learned the truth of Ping Bodie's declaration in the first game of the world series of 1925 here this afternoon when they met the "old man" of the Washington club.

The pitching sorcery that is in the mighty right arm of Johnson held the Pirates spell-bound, befuddled—aye, and blinded until the game had passed into baseball history as a 4 to 1 victory for the Senators of the American league.

They could see the ball as it left the hand of the big blond fellow out there on the mound no doubt. It is possible that they saw it as it sizzled near the plate. Then it became vague shadowy.

It then disappeared from their startled vision and clashed with a distinct thud into the fat glove of little Muddy Ruel, the Washington catcher, who bounded behind the long like a rubber ball and they could hear the gruff voice of Carl Rigler, the umpire say "strike" one.

No you "can't hit 'em if you can't see 'em."

Proctor Sent To Slumbers

Universal Service Staff Correspondent
OAKLAND, Oct. 7.—Battling Mon-ro, colored heavyweight from Omaha, knocked out Browne Proctor of Oakland in 50 seconds of the first round of a scheduled six round bout in the auditorium here tonight. Proctor was substituting for Fireman Ralph Schmidt of Los Angeles, who failed to keep his appointment.

see "em" and the Pirates couldn't see "em today."

As the innings rolled by the jay hawkers cyclone with his pitching wizardry still held the Pirates helpless. The crowd of 41000 men and women, mostly Pittsburgh enthusiasts, rose and swept the field with furious gusts of applause for Walter Johnson.

It was sudden and unexpected and wholly a tribute of respect and admiration from hostile fandom to the mighty moundman.

Then Johnson's mainstay in the field, Centerfielder Sam Rice, drove in a pair of Washington runs to give the Senators the margin of victory.

Joe Harris got a homer. So did Pie Traynor and this industrious youth of the Pirates will be heard from at more length before this series is at an end, unless I miss my guess.

Back Home

A CITY'S skyline thrusts itself up from the haze. Harbor craft shriek noisy, welcoming signals. The incoming liner slowly finds her berth. Cordage creaks; a gangplank is thrown out; and homecomers feel beneath their feet the reassuring touch of firm earth.

To some of the travellers the port is but the outer edge of Home. They must journey many miles—perhaps across the continent—in order to get to the places and the people toward which their thoughts reach out.

But to these homing thoughts there is no barrier of distance. For America has a nation-wide communication agency that wipes out the miles as if by magic. Instantly it puts the traveller returned in touch with those whose voices he yearns to hear. To him the symbol of the Bell System's universal service is a sign that he is indeed "back home," however far from the nation's rim that home may be.

CUCUMBER SEED HARVEST STARTS

BRENTWOOD, Oct. 7.—The harvesting of over eighty tons of cucumber seed in Diablo valley started today.

Three hundred fifty acres of cucumbers have been planted in Diablo valley, being grown exclusively for seed. These are grown as an intercrop in the young orchards, and with three hundred and fifty acres planted, producing better than five hundred pounds of seed to the acre, will bring in a crop revenue close to fifty thousand dollars. This is the first year cucumber seed has been grown in Diablo valley, and it is expected several times this acreage will be planted in 1926.

The principal growers are: George Allan, R. Christiansen, and the Kirkman Nurseries. In harvesting the seed the cucumbers are picked from the vines and thrown in wind rows after which a separating machine drawn by horses—pulp the cucumbers and separates the seed which is afterwards washed and dried. Many of the cucumbers grown are weighing in excess of five pounds each.

Fast Bus Service Planned Between Eastbay Cities

This service is expected to result in quicker trips between the two cities than is possible on the street cars. The motor busses will stop only at certain points near the terminal.

The proposed route will be from Eleventh to Clay street, to Seventeenth street, to Telegraph to Allison Way, to Oxford street, to Center street, to Shattuck avenue to Addison street.

TABOO IS PUT ON HAZING

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 7.—The passing of another of the time honored traditions of Leland Stanford University came about as a result of a hazing early this week. The hazing raids were banned by order issued by university authorities last night, after a sophomore raid on the freshmen in Encina hall, which developed into a riot and left a wake of $1500 damage.

The raid on Encina hall had been all that was left of hazing on "the farm" and the tactics of the Sophomores in breaking doors, destroying personal property and dragging freshmen out is blamed for the entire trouble.

Senior sponsors had to be called out to quell the riot, after the Freshmen organized for a mass attack on Toyon hall, the dormitory of the sophs.

An investigation is being held to determine if there is any individual responsibility. Contraller A. E. Ritch said that the sophomore class would be held responsible for the damage done.

Martinez Will Discuss Fire Prevention

MARTINEZ, Oct. 7.—Fire prevention in the city will be discussed at a special meeting of property owners and the board of trustees on next Monday night. At a recent meeting the board suggested purchase of additional fire fighting apparatus following receipt of a letter from L. S. Bush, engineer of the Board of Fire Underwriters, outlining a comprehensive program for betterment of fire protection.

The recommendations made by the Board of Underwriters are as follows:

1. Increasing the water pumping capacity from 500 gallons to 1300 gallons per minute.
2. Provision that all future fire main construction should provide for six-inch mains in the residential districts and eight-inch mains in the business district.
3. A standby source of power and a separate bank of transformers for the pumping station.
4. Installation of six-inch hydrants that will cover 85,000 square feet in the business district and 100,000 square feet in residential districts.
5. Purchase of a combination hose and pumping engine with a capacity of 750 gallons per minute.
6. Employment of full paid drivers one to each piece of apparatus.
7. Installation of tappers in the homes of call members.
8. Purchase of additional hose.
9. Addition of two fire alarm boxes each year.
10. Provision of a telephone in fire department headquarters for exclusive use for fire calls.
